

5 May at 9:00 am ET

OER 101: How to Find and Create Open Educational Resources in your ELT Classroom
Chandia Mansour, Charity Davenport, and Sharon Tjaden-Glass

- Chadia Mansour (M.A. Applied Linguistics) is a former Fulbright scholar in Foreign Languages Teaching and an applied linguist with 19 years of international teaching experience (EFL, ESL, ESP, AFP, Language & Discourse Across Cultures). Chadia's expertise is in SLA and language pedagogy, curriculum development and instructional design in physical, blended and online environments. Currently, Chadia is a doctoral candidate in distance and online education with a focus on online assisted second language acquisition at Athabasca University in Canada.
- Charity Davenport (M.S. TESOL) is an instructor for the English Language Institute at University of Tennessee, Knoxville. She is the author of the ESL textbook, "It's All Greek to Me," which is available as an OER on Pressbooks. She will complete an M.S. in Instructional Technology in August 2021.
- Sharon Tjaden-Glass (M.A. TESOL) is an instructional media designer for Sinclair Community College in Dayton, Ohio. She previously taught ESL in U.S. universities for 13 years. She serves as the Community Manager for the ICIS and hosts monthly Zoom networking sessions between educators and instructional designers.